WEDNESDAY MORNING, APRIL 24, 1867.

Royalty in Distress.

The Hapsburgs are following the fate of the Bourbons, and seem destined to share the Bourbons' bitter experience. The House of Austria has fallen low. Francis Joseph, its representative in Europe, has been defeated, humbled and shorn of the power his House had long wielded in the affairs of Germany. His brother, Maximilian, that "poor shadow, painted king," who undertook to represent the Hapsburgs in America by trying the project of founding an empire, is, (if we may believe late news), in desperate extremities. So, if this family, like the Bourbons, are incapable of learning anything else, they are likely to learn what adversity is. The potentate who got poor, simple Max, into his difficulties leaves him to his fate, and the brother of the unfortunate appeals to our Government to use its influence to save from Mexican vengeance the head that is not strong enough to wear the Mexican crown. The French troops are gone, the only some Austrian guards remain to support and foreigner's pretensions to the throne. It is very evident what the result of this conflict will be. Mexico will get rid of Maximilian. His expulsion or capture cannot be long delayed. Without more foreign assistance than he now possesses he cannot long maintain himself. Unless he were backed by a large army of foreign troops on whom he could depend, he must necessarily share the fate that has been met by numerous rulers of Mexico within the last thirty years. No citizen of that country has been able for any length of time to maintain his authority as ruler; can a foreigner do it without the presence of an army? It may be, indeed it is most probable that the people of Mexico, after the expulsion of Maximilian, will quarrel among themselves after the old fashion. The strife has hardly ceased even for a year since Mexican independence was gained, and it is a flight of folly for the intruder to imagine that he can compose it. Mexico would not remain at peace before he came; much less will there be peace under the government of a usurper who is generally hated by the people and who is unable to enforce his authority. A strong government, supported by a numerous army, might establish peace and order; but small military force which is just sufficient for a menace, and not sufficient to intimidate a restless, malcontented people, can only aggravate the civil disorders. The upstart Emperor is not able to give the country peace, therefore it will fare better with the country when he is gone. In any event its condition could not be worse than at present, and there is a chance for improvement when the intruder is out of the way.

A Transparent Humbug.

The party which advocated Negro emancipation without [illegible] now advocate the employment of [illegible] Herald.

The same [illegible] opposed negro emancipation [illegible] compel men to work forever without [illegible] now without an exception, notable or [illegible] Chinese labor when they can get it at cheaper rates than they would have to pay for the labor of white men. No doubt the editor who wrote the above, himself employs Chinese labor in one way or another. His object is to get cheap labor. Men who talk as he does nonetheless always take care to get their work done for as little pay as possible. Such persons are among the chief patrons of Chinese labor in [illegible] a large part of the [illegible] paid to the Chinese of this city, and [illegible] people's maintenance and support. [illegible] person will commit the folly of employing [illegible] who have been advocates of [illegible] who regret the overthrow of a system [illegible] whole classes to work [illegible] wages and, would now hesitate to employ [illegible] they could obtain or use [illegible] means in their power to reduce wages to [illegible] Those who regret emancipation [illegible] which thereby that they would [illegible] if they could, will not [illegible] stating it for the [illegible] Their principle is to get [illegible] nothing; but if they succeed in [illegible] the best [illegible] thing they will get [illegible] That model [illegible] James Buchanan once said that the country will never reach its height of prosperity [illegible] wages were reduced as in the crowded [illegible] cents per day. This [illegible] party generally; but they attempt to counteract their principles by professing [illegible] in favor of high wages for labor. The regret they express at the abolition of the system of compulsory and unrewarded labor, stamp their professions as the merest sham. No humbug could be more transparent.

THE CONSEQUENCES.—The South is still gathering the bitter fruits of the rebellion. The scourge is not yet stayed. Desolation and poverty and famine tell of the havoc caused by the rebellion, and attest the wickedness of those who brought these distresses on that unhappy portion of our land. Starvation threatens tens of thousands, and they who once with wicked ambition exalted themselves, are now begging for bread. It would be less matter if the guilty only were involved in these calamities. But as is ever the case, a large share of the suffering must fall on those who are not answerable for the circumstances that produced it. In addition to other distresses which have fallen on that people, the floods, in many localities are upon them. The waters are ploughing through the barriers that confined the lower Mississippi, and wholecounties and parishes are inundated. These levees were neglected during the rebellion and suffered to decay, and since the close of the struggle the people have been to poor too repair them. The waters have now broken them, and taken possession of a large area of the best land in the South. Here is another consequence of the great crime of that people. The lesson which has been and is still being administered to the South should prove a deterrent against all future rebellions.

THE LOVELY DEMOCRACY OF KENTUCKY.—Gov. Bramlette recently sent a message to the Democratic Legislature of Kentucky reciting the bushwhacking, brigandage and guerrilla practices generally of the Democracy in that State, and requesting that measures be taken to suppress the outrages. Shortly afterwards the Governor himself received "warnings" from several different counties, threatening him with summary vengeance unless he should resign and leave the State. Meantime the outrages continued as before, and the bands of returned rebel soldiers, styling themselves "regulators," or "constitutional Democrats," kept on in their congenial occupation. These proceedings not being at all to the mind of Governor Bramlette, he with many others severed their connection with the Democratic or rebel party of Kentucky and organized a new party. This is the origin of the "third party" in that State which has of late been mentioned in the dispatches. But the rebel wing of the party is much the more numerous, and will probably elect its ticket. Lovely missionary of law and order is this same rebel-Democratic party!

STANDS FIRM.—The New Orleans Times says that Louisiana "cannot be moved from her high position. She stands firmly on her constitutional rights as a member of the Federal Union." This is rather cool from men who, two years ago, insisted just as fiercely that their relations to the Union were absolutely and legally severed. They now claim that the old tie has held firm all along. This may be true, but which doctrine do they believe?

STATE ITEMS.

A few days since, in the vicinity of Brownsville, a party of children and older persons were riding in a cart, which capsized, one of the wheels falling on the head of a little boy named Simmons, killing him instantly.

Oregon is represented on Senate committees, namely: Williams is a member of the Committee on Finance, Committee on Public Lands, Joint Committee on Retrenchment, and is Chairman of the Committee on Private Land Claims. Corbett is a member of the Committee on Commerce, the Committee on the District of Columbia, and the Committee on Indian Affairs.

The State Journal says: The Springfield Milling Company have suspended running a few days for the purpose of making some important changes in their machinery, repair dams, etc. In the saw mill, they have substituted for the old one, a new double turbine wheel, of ninety-four horse power, with shafts and other rigging to correspond. In about ten days they will be again running, and that in earnest.

The General Bankrupt Law.

This is a matter of general interest, and has been differently rendered and criticised. We give the following from the New York Herald as the most correct and condensed summary of the main bill as well as the most appropriate commentary thereon we have seen:

"The Thirty-ninth Congress has left behind it one legacy for which the people will be grateful. The passage of the act to establish a uniform system of bankruptcy in the United States will afford general satisfaction, and prove a valuable boon to the country. While some of the features of the law—for its final approval by the Executive may be regarded as certain—may require alteration or amendment, its enactment in an imperfect shape will be universally conceded to be preferable to its defeat.

"The jurisdiction in bankruptcy cases is given by the act to the several District Courts of the United States, with the United States Circuit District Courts acting in a supervisory capacity as Courts of Equity. The Judges of the District Courts will be assisted in the performance of the duties imposed upon them by Registers in bankruptcy, who are required to be counselors of those Courts or some other Courts of record of their several States. The power of the Register is limited, and provision is made for reference of disputed questions to the District Judges, and for appeals from the District Courts to the Circuit Courts, and from the latter, in cases where the matter in dispute shall exceed two thousand dollars, to the Supreme Court of the United States.

"There are two kinds of bankruptcy contemplated by the act; voluntary or involuntary. In the former any person residing within the jurisdiction of the United States, owning three hundred dollars and finding himself insolvent, may apply by petition to the Judge of the district in which he has resided for the last six months preceding the date of the petition, or for the longest period during such six months, and shall thereupon be declared a bankrupt. The creditors having been properly notified by the Court, meet together and appoint one or more assignees of the estate of the debtor; the choice to be made by the greater part of the value and in number of the creditors who have proved their debts, or in case of failure to agree, then by the District Judge, or where there are no opposing creditors, by the Register. The whole affairs of the bankrupt pass into the hands of the assignees, who have full powers granted them necessary for the collection of all debts and the final adjustment and closing up of the estate. Stringent regulations are made for the proper deposit and safe keeping of all moneys received from the estate; and where delay is likely to occur from litigation in the final distribution of the assets, the court is empowered to direct their temporary investment. The bankrupt is liable to be called for examination on oath upon all matters relating to the disposal or condition of his property or to his business transactions, and, and for good cause shown, his wife may in like manner be compelled to attend as a witness in the case.

"In the distribution of the bankrupt's estate dividends are to be paid as agreed upon by a majority in value of the creditors, from time to time, at three months intervals, but the following claims are first to be paid in full:—First, the fees, costs and all expenses under the bankrupt act; second, all debts, taxes and assessments due to the United States; third, all State debts, taxes and assessments; fourth, wages due to any operative, clerk or house servant to an amount not exceeding fifty dollars for labor performed within six months preceding the bankruptcy; fifth, all debts due to any persons who are or may be entitled to preference by the laws of the United States. The voluntary bankrupt is entitled to his discharge provided no fraud is proved against him, at any time from sixty days to one year after adjudication of bankruptcy; but the proof or discovery of any fraud, or concealment deprives him of the right to discharge. No person who has once received his discharge is to be entitled again to become a voluntary bankrupt, unless his estate is sufficient to pay 70 per cent. of his debts, or unless three-fourths of his creditors assent in writing to his bankruptcy. Preferences and fraudulent conveyances are declared void by the act, and suitable provisions are made for the voluntary bankruptcy of partnerships and corporations.

"The exemptions under the law are as follows:

"The necessary household and kitchen furniture; and such other articles and necessaries of such bankrupt as the assignee shall designate and set apart, having reference in the amount to the family, condition and circumstances of the bankrupt, but altogether not to exceed in value, in any case, the sum of $500; and also the wearing apparel of such bankrupt, and that of his wife and children, and the uniform, arms and equipments of any person, who is or has been a soldier in the militia or in the service of the United States; and such other property as now is or hereafter shall be exempted from attachment or seizure or levy on execution by the laws of the United States, and such other property, not included in the foregoing exceptions, as is exempted from levy and sale upon execution or other process or order of court, by the laws of the State in which the bankrupt has his domicils at the time of the commencement of the proceedings in bankruptcy to an amount not exceeding that allowed by such State exemption laws in force in the year 1864.

PROSPECTORS AND INDIANS.—A prospecting party lately started out from Owyhee to examine the country in the vicinity of Red Mountain. One of the company writes as follows to the Avalanche—the letter being dated "Three Forks of the Owyhee, March 20th:"

We jumped up about fifteen Indians seven miles above here on the South Fork on Monday, the 25th, but not knowing the strength of them, we thought best to advise with Col. Coppinger, at Camp Winthrop. In a few hours the Colonel, with forty men, came with us to camp at Three Forks, making arrangements for marching. On the morning of the 27th, by daylight, we were on the move, about sixty in number. In addition to Col. C.'s command, there were thirteen of our party, three of the men who are working on the road, lately located from Silver to California, and some of the soldiers stationed at the Forks for the protection of the road party. It was the hardest day's march for me since I entered the service. We had from one to two feet of snow to break and snowshoeing harder than I have seen it show during the past winter. Well, we arrived at the point where the Indians were seen and sent scouts ahead to prospect. After about two hours they returned and reported the bird flown. They set fire to their deserted huts and brought in a few trophies, but could not determine which way they had traveled on account of the falling snow. We arrived in camp about six o'clock tired and disappointed. The next morning Col. C. left us for the Fort with the command—we all feeling under the same obligations to him as if he had had better success. As soon as he can get subsists and prepare for traveling he intends to make a forty day's campaign through this Owyhee country with eighty men. The Col. thinks there are no permanently located Indians in this country. He thinks those seen above here are some runaways from Gen. Crook.

The report of the Commissioner of Patents shows that during the year 1866, 15,269 applications for patents were filed in his office, 9,460 patents issued, 58 patents extended, and 2,540 caveats filed. 9,210 patents were issued to citizens of our own country. The receipts of office for the year were $406,665; expenditures, $361,724. The amount now standing to the credit of the patent fund is $264,120. The Commissioner says the number of patents issued last year was nearly fifty per cent. greater than any previous year. The number for the present year he thinks may reach 20,000. He pleads for more clerks and more room.

THE CAMELS IN AUSTRALIA.—The Camel has been introduced into Australia, and has proved well adapted to the dry regions of that country. In a recent expedition, 70 horses, 14 camels, and 15 men were employed. The springs upon which they depended for water having dried up, the horses died; the man resorted to their stores of spirituous liquors while the camels traveled on without drink. The caravan was thus enabled to continue its journey until they reached Thompson River.

INDIA.—India has a national debt, and a large one, too—its amount being set down for 1866 as $575,115,735, in gold. This does not include $30,000,000 capital stock of the East India Company, which is subject to Government redemption.

We ascertain the qualities of a bell by ringing it. A young man had better learn the qualities of a belle by ringing her.

Portland R. A. Chapter No. 3.—A Special Convocation of this Chapter will be held at Masonic Hall this (Wednesday) evening, April 24th, at 7½ o'clock.

By order of M. E. H. P.

MRS. M. A. WHITING, WIFE OF DR. A. B. WHITING, of No. 4 East 34th street, New York, a lady well acquainted with all the leading Sewing Machines, says the superiority of the Grover & Baker Machine consists in the elasticity of the stitch, and the stitch fastening itself at the end of the seam; also, that the machine may be used for embroidering purposes. The stitch will not break on bias seams when stretched, as others do, and neither does it draw this work. The stitch will wear as long as the garments.

THIS COMPANY HAVING GREATLY enlarged their Refining Works, and introduced many other important improvements, are pleased to announce that they feel warranted in again reducing materially their terms of doing business.

THE TARIFF OF CHARGES

Which they now submit to the public—considered with reference to the cost of material and labor—is lower than in any other part of the world, and secures to the mining interest of this coast an important increase in both the minting and commercial value of bullion.

Their charges hereafter will be as follows:

FOR ASSAYING DEPOSITS FOR UNPARTED GOLD BARS.

One-eighth of one per cent. (heretofore a quarter) for all amounts over $1,000, and two dollars for any smaller sum. Returns made in twenty-four hours.

FOR ASSAYING DEPOSITS FOR UNPARTED SILVER BARS.

Two dollars for the gold contained, up to $1,000, and one-eighth of one per cent. for all amounts over that sum, and one per cent. on the silver contained. Returns made in twenty-four hours.

FOR REFINING DEPOSITS MADE FOR COIN OR FINE BARS.

On bullion under 300 parts gold 2 cents per ounce.
On bullion from 300½@600 parts gold, 4 cents per ounce.
On bullion from 600½@750 parts gold, 6 cents per ounce.
On bullion from 750½@949½ parts gold, 8 cents per ounce.

Above 950 the only charge will be for coinage. But there will be no charge for refining less than two dollars.

FOR COINING GOLD.

This charge will be the same as at the Mint—a half of one per cent.—and which is paid by us to that institution. But there will be no charge in future for making fine gold or silver bars from bullion refined by us.

RETURNS IN COIN IN FORTY-EIGHT HOURS.

Silver contained in deposits for coin will be accounted for at the same rate customary at the Mint.

Gold bars of other Assayers, in good standing, will be cashed by us at the highest market rates.

Dust and bullion can be forwarded to us from any part of the country, and returns made through Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express.

CHARGES AT U. S. BRANCH MINT.

For the convenience of those not familiar with the terms of the Mint, we subjoin the tariff of charges now in force at that institution:

For refining bullion under 300 parts gold, 3 cents per ounce.

For refining bullion from 300½@600 parts gold, 5 cents per ounce.

For refining bullion from 600½@750 parts gold, 7 cents per ounce.

For refining bullion from 750½@899½ parts gold, 11 cents per ounce.

For refining bullion from 899½@949½ parts gold, 14 cents per ounce.

The charge for coinage is half of one per cent., and the charge for making fine silver bars the same.

Comparing the net value of deposits for coinage, with the proceeds of unparted gold bars sold in the market—assuming that the bars have cost ½ of one per cent.—they must be sold at the following par rates to equal the return which would have been made had they been deposited for coinage:

$60 per to equal Mint return, at refining charge of 14 cents.

$45 per to equal Mint return, at refining charge of 14 cents.

$65 per to equal San Francisco Mint return, at refining charge of 8 cents.

DEAD TIMES.—The following extract is from the Market Review, issued by McCracken, Merrill & Co., on 8th inst., the 20th inst. It is in consonance with the views held by most business men in Portland. The picture is somewhat gloomy, but is one upon which our merchants cannot look, nevertheless.

"Our orders from the mining and interior sections come in but slowly, and our jobbing trade has not assumed that activity that it has in past seasons. This may be attributed partly to the fact that during the prevalence of high freights between this port and San Francisco, many of the interior merchants made large purchases of goods, which are still on hand, and our city jobbers must wait until these stocks are disposed of before many purchases will be made here. Orders for produce are still slow, owing to the high rate of freight to the mining country, and from what information we can gather there will be but little done in that direction before July."

"We think the indications of a dull season, throughout, are favorable. There is nothing in the business horizon to lead to a reasonable hope that the coming season in California will be any more active and lively than that of last year or the year before. California is preparing to meet a dull season, compared with the past, as is Oregon. Our neighbors of British Columbia are no worse off than we are. There is nothing in the condition of the Eastern States that can affect this coast in any way of bettering its business prospects. Our people must make up their minds at once that two, three or four years must elapse before business will again be as lively as heretofore. In Portland there are too many in merchandising and the stocks are too large for the present restricted markets. Portland is too large and too far for the Willamette valley, which must hereafter be looked to for its growth, will the latter enjoy such a big life its former prosperity. The city is not dead or played out," but it must "wait for the wagon."

INSANE.—The Chinaman, mentioned yesterday as having been sent before the County Court for insanity, was ordered sent to the Insane Asylum. We learn that he was not sent here from Lewiston, and as a matter of justice, should be returned there. The man Harris, who is charged with assault and battery, was, this morning, on motion of the county, was ordered to be temporarily confined in the County Jail, and to be sent back to California, whence he came. Rashid Lytle, who has been confined in the County Jail since the 18th of March, for insanity, on motion of his friends, was ordered sent back to Boise City, as will be remembered as the lunatic man who killed his father with an axe, in January last, near that City. He had then been insane for some time after the commission of that horrid tragedy, and was sent here by his brother, in charge of Mr. Walling, to be placed in the Asylum, there being no provision made for paying the expenses of his keep by the proprietors of the Asylum refused to receive him. Mr. Walling made some efforts to procure the necessary means for his support at the Asylum, but failed, and left here without having suspended, and having left the care of the county officers who could not allow him to run at large, though his keeping entailed expense upon the county. The order of the court will be to send back to Boise City, and the sheriff of Boise county, will take him in charge.

ANOTHER FOR TOBACCO.—We have struck a big thing—an antidote for tobacco. It is a preparation by Dr. Byrn, [illegible] Day & Son of New Haven, Connecticut, and purports to be a sure cure for the use of tobacco in all its forms, chewing, smoking, snuffing, etc. It works on chewing, each package, says: "Understand this is CURE, not a Substitute, a single package will do the work." We are pleased to learn that Mr. [illegible] Jr., of Hamden, Conn., has tried it and finds that it cured him, after using tobacco for twenty years. Even was heavy on the chew, and we are glad for the sake and the friends of whom he sponged the weed, as he best may will a cure. A. H. Cook, of Bell Center, used to smoke like a human Vesuvius, but the antidote cured, and writes for the benefit of mankind generally, and Dr. Byrn in particular, that it "had the desired effect." His evidence is a little dubious from the fact that he does not state what particular effect he desired. We tried one mouthful of it yesterday, and we most heartily found ourself cured of ever using any more of it. Dr. Byrn is welcome to the benefit of our experience. Anybody is curious in relation to this new-fangled notion, he can call at Parrish & Atkinson's, buy a package and be cured—of his curiosity.

MARBLE WORKS.—We visited, yesterday, the marble works of Mr. Wm. Young, and found that he has in his yard a great variety of monuments, slabs, mantle pieces, table tops, etc., of the most beautiful design and finished workmanship. We have never seen any work of the kind on this coast, superior in finish, to many of the work in his shop. He has several mantle-pieces of imported California marble, that are really beautiful. The marble takes a very fine polish and is just the thing for nice table-tops and work of that kind, as it does not readily receive stains. Some monuments of Vermont marble attracted our attention by their peculiar green and regular, perpendicular lines of color. One column had a base of this dark hue, while the shaft had all the appearance of marble, except that it was almost white. Mr. Young informed us that the quarries of Vermont furnish marble of three very different qualities of marble—dark green, light green and almost white—all of the same or less streaked. Mr. Young has a great variety of plain, carved and sculptured work, in several kinds of marble, and is prepared to furnish designs and execute orders in the highest style of workmanship. His shop is at No. 33, Front street.

NEW GOODS.—An Extensive Stock.—No well defined idea of the stocks of goods now on hand in Portland, without going through the several wholesale establishments—from cellar to loft. Take Corbett's store, for instance, and start with the cellar, filled with all sizes of heavy goods, nails, iron, etc.; then go to the ground floor and look about three times all around before you can begin to realize the amount and variety of staple goods; then go up stairs and see the great variety and stocks of agricultural, harvesting and mining tools, from the size of a clothes line to a sash knife; then see (18 inches by 18) cartridge boxes, especially for Oregon climate, etc., etc. When you have seen all you can, realize that the same house has two warerooms and will fill in the same way and of similar goods as you will begin to have a dawning conception of the immense stock of goods now on hand in Portland wholesale houses for 1867. Our merchants have the biggest and best selected stock of general hardware in the city, perhaps, that was ever produced in Portland, such large enough to surprise anybody who has never been through the city wholesale houses.

NEW HOTEL.—Portland has to spread-eagle over than show on the side-board is the chief port to be able entertainment, and where elegant dissemination can be purchased at the moderate outlay of six to six dollars per day. The three or four leading hotels are no better than that, though they make comparatively small pretensions. At either of them, for a reasonable sum per day or week, a man may find most of the comforts of home. The late improvements in the Stevens House, have made that house worthy of particular notice, and the proprietors of the Asylum refused to receive him. Mr. Walling made some efforts to procure the necessary means for his support at the Asylum, but failed, and left here without having suspended, and having left the care of the county officers who could not allow him to run at large, though his keeping entailed expense upon the county. The order of the court will be to send back to Boise City, and the sheriff of Boise county, will take him in charge.

ANOTHER FOR TOBACCO.—We have struck a big thing—an antidote for tobacco. It is a preparation by Dr. Byrn, [illegible] Day & Son of New Haven, Connecticut, and purports to be a sure cure for the use of tobacco in all its forms, chewing, smoking, snuffing, etc. It works on chewing, each package, says: "Understand this is CURE, not a Substitute, a single package will do the work." We are pleased to learn that Mr. [illegible] Jr., of Hamden, Conn., has tried it and finds that it cured him, after using tobacco for twenty years. Even was heavy on the chew, and we are glad for the sake and the friends of whom he sponged the weed, as he best may will a cure. A. H. Anybody is curious in relation to this new-fangled notion, he can call at Parrish & Atkinson's, buy a package and be cured—of his curiosity.

JUSTICE'S CASES.—We learned yesterday that Justice Chapman is engaged in getting up another base ball club, and that it will be organized and have a name within a short time. The Pioneers will then have considerable to spar them up. They were out for practice last Saturday afternoon and broke all their bats, but whether by overly florid bat muscle or by "main strength and awkwardness," is not stated. They had a very good time nevertheless.

WILLAMETTE PACKETS.—Arrived per steamer Alert, from Oregon City, Tuesday, April 23d, 28 half barrels of potatoes, 3 boxes ditto, 20 boxes apples, 5 cans lard, 7 cans vending goods, 1 case mdse., 228 gunnies bacon, 5 kegs lard, 50 cases lard, 1,555 quarter sacks flour, 55 sacks wheat, 44 bags oats, 210 bags feed, 13 boxes eggs, 5 bales dried fruit, 2 bale woolen sacks, 3 bales hides, 7,000 lbs. lumber.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.—Yesterday morning, the case of the State vs. Wm. Taylor, assault and battery on Mrs. Peter Brunner, was called and a jury summoned, when, on motion of the Prosecuting Attorney, the case was dismissed.

John Harris, an old man, was sent before the court to be examined for insanity.

GRAND LODGE.—The Good Templars of this city, having received notice that on the 1st day of May, the several committees of the lodges, constituting in the aggregate, a grand committee of arrangements, met on Monday evening and elected a May-Queen, the choice falling upon Miss Sallie White, of Portland Lodge, No. 20.

GOOD NEWS.—A dispatch from Senator Corbett, dated New York, April 19th, was received in this city, yesterday, announcing that he would sail from New York on the following day (Saturday) for Oregon. A similar dispatch from Hon. Henry Failing, announces that he will return at the same time.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.—Posters are out in this city announcing the annual meeting of the Washington County Agricultural Society for the election of officers and the transaction of the usual yearly business. The meeting will be held at Hillsboro on Saturday, the 4th of May.

NOT TO BE SO IN DANGER.—A gentleman from Oregon City, yesterday, says that Mr. A. Warner, whose skull was accidentally broken by a blow from an axe, on Saturday, is comparatively comfortable and apparently improving, though the front being out of danger.

RETURN.—The Okanagan arrived from Astoria last evening, reporting that the Fulkiahery, the Orifiamme and the Polkiller went to sea on Sunday. The weather has become again comparatively calm at the mouth of the river.

APPOINTED.—Previous to the departure for the East, of Mr. W. H. Payne, Grand W. C. T. of the order of Good Templars he appointed Mr. Thomas Trumbull, of this city, District Deputy G. W. C. T., for this district.

BARMAN BROS., Agents for the Pacific Shirt Manufactory, corner Front and Morrison Streets, formerly City of Paris Store, Portland.

CHINOOK SALMON AND TROUT.—At the Union Fish Market, Washington street, near Second, may be found this morning a fine lot of Chinook salmon and trout, received last evening—the former from Rainier and the latter from Lewis river.

AT THE LAFAYETTE RESTAURANT under the Oro Fino Hall, may be found on the table every luxury the market affords, at the cheapest price for epicures.

THE RUSH FOR THE FAMILY DYE COLORS of Howe & Stevens is as great as ever. Once introduced to a family or neighborhood, and they spread like wildfire. The truth is, they are so nice to have about the house that every prudent and sensible matron will have them. Howe & Stevens employ some one hundred hands to keep up to orders. Sold by Smith & Davis.

The subscriptions to the Astoria lot sale are so far taken that the distribution has been definitely fixed for Wednesday, the 15th day of May. Agents have been appointed in most of the towns, and H. B. Parker, Esq., is General Agent. The distribution will take place at the Court House, under the management of the County officers. The price of a share is fifty dollars. Among the prizes is a homestead and three lots worth $3000, which some one will get for $50. There are also three lots valued at $1000 each; six at $500; eight at $400; thirty-four at $200; fifty-one at $150; two hundred at $100, and one hundred and twenty-four shares consist of two lots each; twenty-two of four lots, and twenty-one of six lots each, and about one-third of the shares are lots worth from $100 down to $50. No ticket will draw less than a $50 lot. The purchase money is payable on delivery of a warranty deed for the lots drawn; but special arrangements can be made by addressing the proprietor, C. Olney, at Astoria.

Members of the Irish Aid Society and Fenian Brotherhood are requested to meet at the Fenian Armory this (Wednesday) evening at 8 o'clock precisely.

Bronchitis or Chronic Sore Throat.—It is attended with irritation of the bronchial tubes, which convey the air we breathe into the lungs. The irritation produces sore throat, hoarseness, coughing, and sometimes spitting of matter streaked with blood. If it is neglected it will extend down to the lungs, and settles into confirmed consumption. ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will be found a most valuable remedy for curing this disease, and prevent its running into the consumption. For sale by dealers in family medicine generally. ta20

Snatched from the Grave.—A Somnambulist's Story

From my earliest youth I have been subject to somnambulic visitations.

Of the unhappy habit of walking in my sleep my parents endeavored to break me by resorting to various and as they imagined radical remedies, but as I grew in years my eccentricity of misfortune, as you may be pleased to term it, became more confirmed and more dangerous. That is, I would select for my nocturnal and unconscious walking, the most dangerous places in the vicinity of my parents dwelling but fortunately I never experienced injury, bodily or otherwise in consequence

Often have I gotten up in the middle watches of the night, and labored assiduously at some task which I had commenced in my waking hours and having completed it, would return to my couch to awaken wearied in body, as if I had been hard at work, at early dawn and to find that that which I had left in an unfinished state a few hours previously, required no further labor on my part

I, of course, had no knowledge of these eccentricities I only knew of them on being told by credible witnesses—persons, among them, my parents, whose words I dared not question—that they had seen and followed me from the time the somnambulistic fit commenced until it had passed off

To say that until I was married to the dearest and most noble-hearted of her sex, whose actions are gentle as those of a spirit is, and whose beauty of person increases rather than diminishes as she advances in years, I was in constant perturbation, dreading lest some accident should befall me, to the lasting injury of my body or the destruction of my soul, but blessed be Heaven, the dear companion and angel of my life preserves me from all harm.

And it is of her—our love and our final union—I would speak Both were indeed, singularly brought about, for had I not been a somnambulist, she would have been prematurely buried—literally "sent out of the world" before her time

Yes, strange as it may appear, the habit of walking in my sleep released my beloved Agatha from her dreadful confinement in the charnel house, where, while yet conscious of being in the body, she was consigned as one who had suddenly died

And this is her story of her supposed death, immurement in the family vault, and remarkable release therefrom:

On the 17th of December, 1794, Agatha Merland a maiden of comely appearance, was permitted by her parents to invite young friends, of both sexes to a frolic, it being her eighteenth birthday. Although but slightly acquainted with the lady, I was honored by her with an invitation I was exceedingly rejoiced at this mark of respect, for although, as I have said, but slightly acquainted with Agatha or her parents, I very much desired that an intimacy should spring up between mine and hers, to the end that I might visit and converse with her more freely than one but little removed from the condition of a stranger could do

To speak without disguise—even at that time I was very much attracted toward her, because of her fine frank lady like bolding of herself in the presence of many—a self possession not often be in young women—a reason why men are ... as their inferiors in mind ... and false conclusion, in my opin... and ... who evince not a like self possession in this respect have not been small or trifling in their character

What if she were alive!"

... charge of the coffin I entered ... Merland's It was presumptious me but I could not resist the desire I looked narrowly around me, noting particularly where the body of Agatha was placed.

The house of my people was not by exceed one mile distant from the church, in a vault of which lay the young woman, while that of her parents was fully four miles, and very glad I was, to worn out by the excitements, labors, and regrets of the past few days, that a resting place was so near

Early on that evening I retired to bed, and soon fell into a profound sleep

When next I awoke I found myself standing at the open door of the vault of the Merlands, with the excellent Agatha in my arms, breathing heavily as if I had wrested myself

This experience to me was startling in the extreme and it was some minutes before I was sufficiently master of myself to really consider whether my condition of mind was such as sane persons are assumed to possess

I was at first mad with joy Yes, I was delirious at the thought that the heart of Agatha, beating as yet but feebly, was resting against mine! that she was alive!

I look into her eyes, by the light of the stars, and persuaded myself that I could see life and soul return to them

Fortunately, in my unconscious journey to the church, I took with me a very heavy cloak, and this I placed around the body of the lovely girl. My next thought was to take her, how that I was awake, to the person that lived nearest to where we were This happened to be the rector of the parish, a gentleman with whom I was intimately acquainted, and who knew the parents of the young woman

Holding my charge in my arms I hastened to Mr Rossville and loudly knocked for admittance I was unusually vehement in my efforts to awaken him, and the consequence was the door was hastily opened to me and my sweet burthen.

"Who are you, sir!" demanded the rector, "and what do you require of me at this hour of the night, or rather morning?"

"I am John Edwards, Mr Rossville," I answered "You know me, and this lady is Miss Agatha Merland, whom I found just now in my arms at the door of her family vault She lives, sir! How I got to the vault and opened its door I know not I can only say I retired to bed in my own room last night, my heart sorrowing at the sudden demise of this poor young lady, and when I awoke I found myself as I have informed you, standing with her in the starlight, her eyes half open and a fluttering pulsation at her heart She lives, sir! But she must be carefully nursed"

At this juncture the wife of the rector arrived and immediately took charge of the resurrected by requesting me to take her to a chamber where there was a bed on which she could be deposited

Wine and other preparations of a restorative character were given her, and I had the satisfaction of learning, at the end of a few hours, that Agatha, although yet weak, was perfectly conscious, and desired to see me and next her parents I at once entered the apartment she occupied, my eyes overflowing with tears of gratitude She made an effort to extend her hand to mine As she did so, her eyes filled as with a heavenly light Bowing my head, she distinctly whispered in my ear

"My preserver! The life you have saved is yours!"

I was intoxicated with joy, yet I wonderfully preserved my equanimity I responded by telling her to thank God, not me for my interposition in her behalf, for of myself I was wholly unconscious of doing aught that was worthy of thanks

Next I hastened with "glad tidings of great joy" to the young lady's parents, and presently they were by her side

The news spread rapidly throughout the entire country that Miss Marland had been restored to life, and many indeed were the compliments undeserved, of necessity, that were showered on me

Agatha and I became dear friends in a very short time, and at the end of a year with the approval of our parents, we were united in marriage, and though a great many years have passed away since that auspicious day, our happiness has never waned, but, on the contrary, greatly increased

I even now occasionally walk in my sleep, but I am rejoiced to say that, as medical men have declared it, my wife has never had a second attack of syncope

Of these we have now before us the Commonwealth Mercury, bearing the date from Thursday, September 9, 1658. This contains the announcement of the death of Oliver Cromwell in the following language

Whitehall, Sept 3

His most Serene & Renowned Highness, Oliver Lord Protector, being after a sickness of about fourteen days (which appeared a Ague in the beginning), reduced to a very low condition of Body began early this morning to draw near the gate of death, and it pleased God about three a clock afternoon to put a period to his life I would willingly express upon this sad occasion, the deep sorrow which hath possessed the minden of his most Noble Son and Successor and other dearest Relations, had I language sufficient But all that I can use will fall short of the merits of that most excellent Prince His first undertakings for the Public Interest, his working things all along, as it were out of the Rock, his founding a Military Discipline in these nations, such as is not to be found in any example of preceding times and whereby the Noble Soldiery of these Nations may (without flattery) be commended for Piety, Moderation, and Obedience, as a pattern to be imitated, but hardly to be equalled, by succeeding generations, His Wisdom & Piety in things divine and his Prudence in management of Civil Affairs, and conduct, of the Military, and admirable Successes in all, made him a Prince indeed among the people of God, by whose prayers being lifted up to the Supreme Dignity, he became more wholly seated in their hearts, because in all his actings it was evident that the main design was to make his own interest one and the same with theirs, that it might be subserving to the great interest of Jesus Christ.

And in the promoting of this, his spirit knew no bounds, his affection could not be confined at home, but brake forth into foreign parts, where he was by good men universally admired as an extraordinary person raised up of God, and by them owned as the great Protector and Patron of the Evangelical Profession This being said, and the World itself witness of it, I can only add, That God gave him blessings proportionable to all these vertues, and made him a Blessing to us, by his wisdom and valor to secure our peace and liberty, and to revive the ancient renown and reputation of our Native Country.

After all this, it is remarkable, how it pleased the Lord, on this day to take him to rest, it having formerly been a day of labors to him; for which both himself & the day (Sept 3) will be most renowned to posterity, it having been a day of Triumphs and Thanksgiving for the memorable victories of Dunbar & Worcester; a day which after so many Revolutions of Providence, high Contradictions, and wicked Conspiracies of unreasonable men, he lived once again to see, and then to die with great assurances and serenity of minde, peaceably in his Bed

Thus it hath proved to him to be a day of Triumph indeed, there being much of Providence in it, that after so glorious Crowns of Victory placed on his head by God on this day, having neglected an Earthly Crown, he should now go to receive the Crown of Everlasting Life

There are some advertisements of considerable interest in this sheet, among which we find the subjoined announcement of a newly published work by John Bunyan

There is newly published A few Sighs from Hell, or the Groans of a damned soul, being an Exposition of those words in the sixteenth of Luke, concerning the Rich Man and the Beggar, wherein is discovered the lamentable state of the damned, their cries, their desires in their distresses, with the determination of God upon them; A good warning word to sinners, both old and young, to take into consideration betimes, lest they come into the same place of torment Also a brief discourse touching the profitableness of the holy Scriptures, By that poor servant of Jesus Christ, John Bunyan, sold by M. Wright at the King's Head in the Old Bailey

The next which we quote smacks of the infancy of the tea trade and of tea drinking

That excellent, and by all physicians approved China Drink, called by the Chinoos, Tcha, by other Nations, Tay or Tea, is sold at the Sultaness head, a Coffee house in Sweetings Rents, by the Royal Exchange, London.

Another of these journals, which is the first number of the Mercurius Domesticus, or news both from city and country, published to prevent false reports, and dated Friday, December 19, 1679, was published in the midst of the excitement over the Popish plot, and is full of references to that affair. We select the following as specimens of these.

There being Intimation given, that Mrs. Celler the Popish Midwife now a Prisoner in Newgate would make some Discovery both of the Plot, and the Counter Plot; She was brought before the Council last week, but would confess nothing, whereupon Justice Warcup produced some Information against her taken before him, upon which she acknowledged the greatest part of what was charged against her, & thereby gave very strong Confirmation to the Truth of Mr Thomas Dangerfields depositions concerning that cursed Conspiracy managed by the Lady Powis, herself, and several others, for the destruction of many Hundreds of his Majesties Loyal Protestant subjects

We have an account that a person of quality lately received a packet from Flanders by the Post, from an unknown person with a blank Cover, and two books inclosed therein, the contents whereof were very scandalous and Treasonable, vindicating the Innocency of the five Jesuites, that were lately executed, to the dishonor of his Majesties Government, and the Justice of the Nation, who are fully satisfied of their guilt, and they particularly inveighed against the King's Evidence, especially Dr Oates and Mr Bedlow

We have also the following, among other precious items of gossip

It is reported, that a Quaker fell in love with a Lady of very great Quality, and hath extraordinarily petitioned to obtain her for his Wife

Here is an account of an assault upon John Dryden

Upon the 18th instant in the evening Mr Dryden the great Poet, was set upon in Rose street in Convent Garden, by three persons, who calling him rogue, and a son of a w—re, knockt him down and dangerously wounded him, but upon his crying out murther, they made their escape, it is conceived that they had their pay before hand, and designed not to rob him but to execute upon him some Romish if not Popish vengeance

Among the advertisements we find Mr Dryden's offer of a reward for the arrest of the perpetrators

Whereas on Thursday the 18th instant in the Evening, Mr John Dryden was assaulted and wounded in Rose street in Convent Garden by divers men unknown, if any Person shall make discovery of the said Offenders to the said Mr Dryden, or to any Justice of the Peace for the Liberty of Westminster, he shall not only receive fifty pounds, which is deposited in the hand of Mr Blanchard Goldsmith, next door to Temple Bar, for the said purpose, but if the discoverer himself be one of the Actors, he shall receive fifty pounds without letting his name be known, or receiving the least trouble by any prosecution

Another advertisement announces another book by John Bunyan

A Treatise of the fear of God shewing what it is, and how distinguished from that which is not so And whence it comes Who have it What are the Effects And what the privileges of those who have in their hearts By Jon Bunyan

We also find the advertisement of a card dealer, who, like dealers of the present day, had a shrewd idea of turning events to use for the main chance, and thus improved the plot

There is newly published a Pack of Cards containing an History of all the Popish Plots that have been in England beginning with those in Queen Elizabeth's time, and ending with this last damnable Plot against his Majesty Charles II Excellently engraven on Copper Plates with very long descriptions under each Card The like not extant Sold by Randal Taylor near Stationer's hall and Benjamin Harris at the Stationers Arms under the Royal Exchange in Cornhill

A Good Excuse.—"Excuse me, Madam, but I would like to know why you look at me so savagely?" said a gentleman to a lady stranger. "Oh! beg pardon, sir I took you for my husband!" was the reply

Letter from Tillamook

TILLAMOOK BAY April 8, 1867

As this portion of the State of Oregon with its immense resources is comparatively unknown, I wish through the columns of the OREGONIAN to make some remarks on its geology, mineralogy and the general features of the surrounding country

Tillamook Inlet is some forty miles south of the mouth of the Columbia river, has an area of twenty square miles or more and is being surveyed by Capt Kinchlow of the United States Coast Survey. Oregon cannot boast of her harbors, this is the best one she has got The facilities for lumbering and the water power this harbor has, cannot be surpassed in any portion of the State of Oregon Tillamook county contains about six hundred square miles, bounded on the east, north and south by the Coast range and its spurs and west by the Pacific ocean

Iron manganese copper tin silver and gold abound here Coals are being discovered in several places The ore called "hematite" by lignition with charcoal is supposed to produce the purest iron, and is found here Iron and oxygen ore, forms red, brown and black ores as ochre, red chalk, umber These exist in quantities

Tillamook county extends east to the summit of the Coast range which is a conuous belt of high mountains broken up into long narrow ridges somewhat similar to the Cascades in the vicinity of Santiam, and like them, representing every point of the compass These ridges consist of immense deposits of trap granites and sand stone over which is strewed, everywhere the alluvial formation or a covering of sand and gravel with which are intermingled red masses of these rocks The general direction of the Coast range is north west and south east, running parallel with the coast The base and backbone of the mountains are granite The rocks that constitute the eastern slope are of the trap family Basalt and porphyry are found profusely scattered along the surface Trap is known very commonly to overlie strata of different ages and here it is thus found The plutonic division of rocks, or the granitic series, constitute the central portion of these mountains underlying the trap of the eastern slope The rocks of this division are called plutonic, comprehending all the granites and certain porphyries which are nearly allied in some of their characters to volcanic formations Although granite has often pierced through other strata, it has rarely, if ever, been found to rest upon them The granites, gneiss, and other crystalline formations, occupying the lowest place in the order of superposition or are the underlying rocks They never repose on the volcanic or trap formation. Granite, for the most part, preserves a very uniform character throughout a very wide range of territory, forming hills of a peculiar worked form usually clad with a scanty vegetation, and under this character, north and south, appears many portions of the centre of the Coast range Several kinds of granite are seen in the streams and canyons, such as porphyritic granite —so called from its large crystals of feldspar Talcose granite and curite, a rock in which all the ingredients of granite are blended into a finely granular mup These and other varieties of granite pass into certain kind of trap, a circumstance which affords one of many arguments in favor of what is now the prevailing opinion, that the granites are also of igneous origin

The quartz encased by granite indicate tin. Tin is of higher antiquity than copper, copper than lead, lead than silver, and all of them more ancient than gold. The age of metals is judged by that of the rocks in which they are encased Lead and other metals are found in basalt as well as in mineral veins connected with trap rocks, whereas tin is only found in granite and in lodes associated with the granitic series The tin lodes will be of higher relative antiquity for the same reason that the underlying igneous formations or granites which are visible to man, are older, on the whole, than the overlying or trap formation There are only two ores of tin, the peroxide or tin stone and tin pyrites, the former of which alone, has been found in sufficient abundance for metal largic purposes The external aspect of tin ore has nothing very remarkable. It appears very often in twin crystals, its colors are various—as white, gray, yellow, red, brown, black, &c Its specific gravity is the most striking feature. The density of tin ore is much greater than that of most other ores. Stream tin occasionally takes a ligneous aspect, and is sometimes formed wood tin. Most all metals in veins dip east except tin.

Now red sand stone and conglomerate appears to be the prevailing rocks forming all the head lands running into the sea The conglomerate of this place consists of fragments of primary rocks, held firmly together by an igneous cement and lying as a transition stratum with new red sandstone on top of the coal formation, and old red sand stone below. When it is upprmost, there is no coal. Tillamook and the Nehalem contain a great coal basin that will be of incalculable benefit to this portion of the country some day. The forests which formed the coal beds grew in the sand and shale, whose filtrations formed the cement of the conglomeration. The sandstone of this coal basin consists of grains of quartz, mica and feldspar. It also contains nodules of slate clay, carbonate of iron and pieces of wood as coal. It lies in masses of all thicknesses, and horizontal as though laid on by tides and inundations The coals of this place and of the Nehalem are of the bituminous order True coal is so little altered from its original vegetable condition as to have left scarcely any trace of its true history It is generally, however, associated with sands and clays, exhibiting numerous fragments of the ancient vegetation that existed at the time of its formation, but these fragments are so far removed in every respect from the existing forms of vegetation as to afford little clue to the ancient condition of the earth in this respect

FORTUNE TELLING.—One of our exchanges is responsible for the following story relative to this popular and pernicious vice

Not many evenings since it is recorded that a sinner who has escaped hanging for, lo! these many years, was in company with several ladies The subject of fortune telling was introduced Several of the "angels" pleaded guilty to the soft impeachment of having written Madam This and Madam That to furnish them leaves in their future history Instances were mentioned of some very remarkable developments in a certain case Old It—— was asked for his opinion He replied "So far as I am personally concerned, I know more about myself than I wish to I don't think any good comes of those things I had a friend who dressed himself in a lady's clothes and called upon a celebrated prophetess He did not believe she would discover the disguise, but he heard what made him exceedingly unhappy" Here the old reprobate ceased

A lady much interested asked, "What did she tell him?" "She told he was to marry soon, and become the mother of ten children!"
